Property Description

For many reasons, this is a beautiful, appealing home well worth checking out. First, the thoughtful design provides a seamless transition from indoor to outdoor living. The dining room is outdoor right off the kitchen and the living area opens onto the landscaped grounds and vast mountain view. At this altitude AC isn't necessary so you can have fresh breezes wafting right through the house day and night. Second, the construction quality and finishes are top of the line: inlaid ceramic tiles, wood ceilings, granite counter tops and finely detailed carved wooden doors. Third, two master bedrooms are at opposite ends of the house, providing personal space and privacy for both. In between, an open kitchen, dining and living area with built in entertainment center combine to make it easy to have your own romantic evenings or to invite numerous guests for a party. Fourth, outside, the grounds are landscaped with decorative and fruit bearing plants, but the real attraction is the view of the mountains across the vast valley.
