Property Description

If you're looking for a beautiful setting for your personal home, guest house and/or cabins surrounded by Costa Rica's rich flora and fauna, this property should be on your list to see. You will have 14.85 acres to play with. There is one obvious building site beside the access road offering a view of the Pacific shoreline. Below that site is another that will have a separate access, and then there are other sites stretched along the ridge alongside the road. This land is on the mountain behind Uvita, an area that is increasingly in demand because of all that Uvita offers as it develops. It is the prime community in this area for banks, grocery stores, churches, activities/events, auto service/gas station, and more. One big attraction that is drawing young families to the area is the variety of international private schools. As of this writing there are three, but it seems very likely that a formal, government authorized and recognized international school will become a reality soon, making this community a magnet into the future.
