Property Description

Casa Elysian is a newly renovated home with an ideal combination of spectacular ocean views, deep forest privacy, creek frontage with a waterfall, a large building pad for a second home, and all this located just a couple of minutes off the coastal highway with two-wheel drive access. It is conveniently located between the popular surf town of Dominical and the cultural center of Uvita. Both are just minutes away. You'll find several pristine beaches, surf breaks, waterfalls, and wildlife in this growing area where the jungle mountains meet the Pacific Ocean. This is a perfect turn-key property if you want to build a luxurious main house or develop additional income generating structures while living in or renting the existing home. This home will function as a vacation home, full-time residence, or income property. This unique property is privately located at the end of a dead-end road making it truly private while still allowing you quick access to town services and activities.
