Property Description

Let's face it, research shows that we, humans, are more at home amongst the forest and trees. When you live amongst them you have better physical and mental health. When you add into the mix that you are living in one of the five 'Blue Zones' on the planet, living in this home will greatly impact and extend your quality of life and longevity. This one of a kind home was built almost 20 years ago. It was designed to integrate itself directly into nature amongst the trees. The kitchen and living room are 100% open and only the bedrooms and bathrooms are fully enclosed. Nature fully integrates into the home with birds perching in the trees just feet from view. Howler monkey's come within the same distance to feed on leaves and occasionally sleep right outside of the living room. The home isn't specifically dependent on the trees as a form maintaining it in the air. It is built to last the test of time and supported by four individual concrete pillars that sustains the weight of the architectural wonder.
