Property Description

Escaleras, Dominical boasts the highest elevations with the closest proximity to the ocean in the entire country. Literally, nowhere else in Costa Rica do the mountains (with such immense grandeur, lush vegetation and abundant wildlife) come so close to the mighty Pacific. It's no wonder that this mountain side is home to some of the most sought after real estate in Central America. It's also no wonder that the most desirable community sits atop this majestic mountain – welcome to Costa Verde Estates. Costa Verde Estates boasts 1,250 acres of land which straddles two provinces and has more than half this area within a formal conservation designation (and with only 8% of the entire property being changed from its natural state for the community's infrastructure and home sites). From the 1,000 to 2,000 feet (above sea level) vantage points, one can see 55 miles across the Pacific and endless whitewater coastline, several iconic costal features (Whale's Tail, various headlands, off-shore park islands), year round sunsets, verdant forest and far reaching stretches of Costa Rica's natural magic.
